These last few days have been hard on boll weevils, but nobody seems to care much.

Maynard Tribble, who is working in Washington, is visiting his sister, Mrs. Ollie Anthony.

Speaking of Washington, Aaron Hudson, his wife and two young sons are all working in Washington, but Aaron pines for the hills and swamps of Oxberry where he was bred and born. The GCW will bring a touch o' home to them from now on.

We have turned over a large part o' our paper this week to three Grenada young men, Choppy Andrews, Claud Shaw and Preston Vance who are vital cogs in our overseas forces.

Miss Ada Cooper said she could never get a hold of the GCW going to Cooper and Vance, so took out a subscription in her own name. She is the right hand of her brother Kyle at Plamore.

This issue, we hope, is a non-controversial issue. Nobody can get irate, irked or mad at anything contained herein.

The Ferdinand Club met Tuesday night in spite of the hellacious weather. Where, guess?

On or before March 15, everybody will know that we are really at war, and that war is costly business.

I cannot but be proud of the old lady who, over a year ago, began preaching the desirability of raising cotton for its seed. Jim Eastland and O'Daniel have taken up the fight in the Senate. Cotton Associations have chimed in. As far as I know, she was the first person publicly to advocate the plan. It has been well said that, next to steel, cotton and its by-products are the most important war materials.

Our son, Private Andrew Whitaker, of the Air Corps, is being transferred this week to the Jackson Army Air Base. I hope this information will not be of much benefit to the enemy. I'll bet Private Andrew Whitaker will not be a Private long.

Grenada Flier Has Good Zero Mark

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA —Chalk up five more victories for the Liberators.

Two of the powerfully armed four-motored bombers, on seperate missions, knocked down five of 16 Japanese Zeros that tried to interfere with their work.

One Liberator got four of 13 attacking Zeros, and the other got one of an attacking squadron of three.

Lieut C. H. Brainard of South Pasadena, Calif., was skipper of a Liberator on a scouting mission over New Britain. A Japanese cargo ship was sighted off shore, and just as the bomb bay doors were opening, a swarm of 13 Zeros swooped down on the American plane.

LT. CHAS. C. ANDREWS

They struck from all directions in a sustained 30-minute attack, but were no match for the heavily-gunned bomber.

The three trigger-boys who beat off the enemy attack were Staff Sergt. Robert Strawn of Waverly, Ill., Staff Sergt. Frank Steinke of Stevens Point, Wis. and Staff Sergt. F. M. McKay of Ann Arbor, Mich. They sent four of the enemy formation flaming into the sea and finally the remaining nine Zeros turned tail.

Today the boys wore broad smiles, for they had boosted the squadron record and were carrying their share.

Another Liberator, piloted by Lieut. Charles Andrews, of Grenada, Miss., came off best in a battle with three Zeros off the New Britain coast. The gunners beat off two the attackers, but the third dived at the Liberator in what appeared to be an all-out suicide effort.

The three gunners, Staff Sergeants Wesley Grow of Ribie Lake, Wis., Clifford Clonkney of St. Paul, and L. H. Past of Evanston, Ill., poured streams of bullets into the Jap ship.

But it kept coming straight at the Liberator. To add to the excitement, two flares in the rear of the bomber were set ablaze by a chance shot from one of the enemy fighters.

The Zero missed the top turret by a margin of ten feet, and everyone aboard breathed easier.

Lt. Andrews is the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Honeycutt.

Recently Promoted

News has reached Grenada that William T. Rose, III, son of Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Rose, has been promoted to the rank of Staff Sergeant. He is in the Glider section of the Army Air Corps and has been in the Southwest ever since he took a preliminary course at Summitt, Miss.

STAFF SGT. W. T. ROSE, III

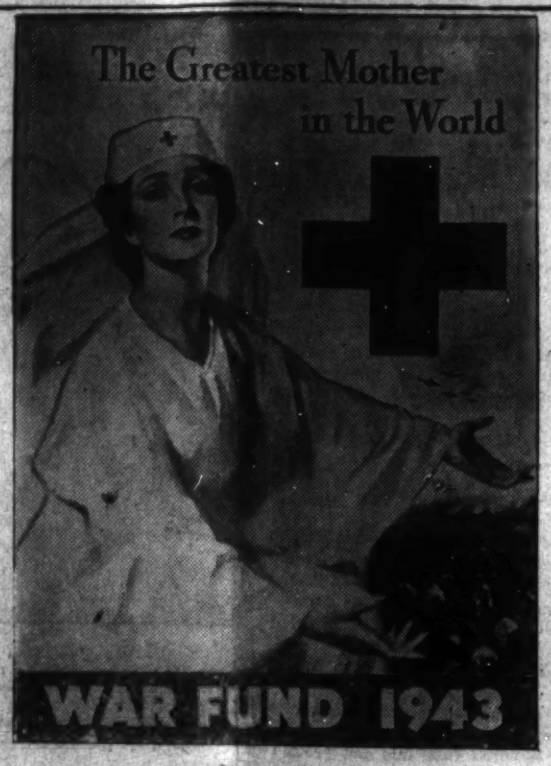
Mrs. G. W. Jennings, of Arlington, Ky., has been the guest of Mrs. Denton this week.



NOT ANNUAL ROLL CALL

The Red Cross War Fund drive is not to be confused with the Annual Roll Call. The money you give now goes into a fund to be used exclusively in the war effort. A large fund will be used in Grenada for emergencies arising from calls from soldiers located at Camp McCain or at U. S. Troop Carrier Base, both located near Grenada. Many demands will be made through the Executive Secretary's office here, and we predict that Mrs. Lewis will be a very busy woman in the months ahead as families and soldiers alike, seek to make emergency contact with their loved ones. Remember that the Red Cross always serves faithfully.

RED CROSS WAR FUND

According to Chairman S. H. Horton, Grenada County Chairman for the Red Cross War Fund, Grenada County's quota is $12,200, (twelve thousand two hundred dollars.) Do not confuse this War Fund drive with the annual Roll Call

Already the committees are at work, soliciting funds. We are publishing today a list of local people who are giving of their time, effort and money, that this quota be raised during this drive. An article in last week's paper (GCW) named the committees to work at Camp McCain. Col. Ryder is Chairman there.

The American Red Cross is represented at Camp McCain by Field Director William V. Alesi.

87th Division Inspected By Lieut. Gen. Lear

Lieut. Gen. Ben Lear, commander of the Second Army, arrived at Camp McCain Wednesday and made a thorough inspection of the personnel and equipment of the youngest division in the Army, the 87th Infantry. The division is commanded by Maj Gen. P. W. Clarkson.

Activated Dec. 22, the 87th Division is the first organization to receive 18 and 19 year old selectees inducted into the Army under the teen-age draft amendment.

General Lear, escorted by General Clarkson, Brig. Gen. John L. McKee assistant division commander, and Brig. Gen. Russell G. Barkalow, division artillery commander, inspected the enlisted men's barracks, reception rooms, mess halls, kitchens and dispensaries. Young recruits lined the roads in the division area anxious to view the official car with the three-starred banner waving in the breeze. When the car passed they snapped to attention and smartly saluted.

General Lear's visit is the second he has made to Camp McCain within the last three months. The Second Army commander participated in the activation day ceremonies December 22.

Millions To March For Red Cross In War Fund Campaign

WASHINGON—American Red Cross volunteers by the millions on March 1 launched a house-to-house canvass of the cities, hamlets and rural communities of the nation in behalf of the $125,000,000 Red Cross 1943 War Fund.

Early indications show that almost 3,000,00 men and women will participate actively in the Red Cross War Fund campaign to help finance the vastly expanded wartime Red Cross program at home and abroad.

In 10,000 Red Cross chapters and branches throughout the United States, volunteers have spent weeks preparing for the most important fund-raising campaign in the history of the organization.

"It is the aim of the Red Cross to give each and every American an opportunity to contribute to the cause of mercy and humanity needed by the world as never before," declared Red Cross Chairman Norman H. Davis.

Volunteers, who will give their time to the exacting task of "door bell punching" will identify themselves with Red Cross volunteer workers' credentials during the campaign. They have been organized into efficient squads by chapters and branches.

Each contributor to the Red Cross War Fund will receive the customary Red Cross service flag for display in the windows of their homes and business establishments, but wartime exigencies have relegated the customary Red Cross metal lapel button into oblivion for the duration.

This year for the first time, in order to avoid tapping vital defense material, contributors to the Red Cross War Fund will receive a paper lapel tag baring the Red Cross insignia.

The campaign will continue throughout March, and early reports from communities in all parts of the country indicate that this year, more than ever, the American public is prepared to welcome Red Cross volunteers with sizable contributions.

Money collected by the volunteers will serve to further the American Red Cross work not only on the home front but on the distant fields of battle where American fighting men are defending freedom.

Teen-Age Selectees Are Above Average

The teen-age selectees who have recently joined the 87th Infantry Division, commanded by Major General P. W. Clarkson, are above average in health and physical fitness, according to a report made by Lt. Col. George Prazak, Division Surgeon.

The new men have received a complete medical and dental examination. Minor ailments will be quickly corrected, while dentists have already started extracting, filling and cleaning teeth.

The medical policy of combat units is to develop sound and healthy bodies in order to assimilate the carefully planned program of vigorous and aggressive training. In a recent statement to the new soldiers, General Clarkson said, "Your training here as an infantryman will not be a simple one. It is intended to be so. The training program is planned to prepare you for the strenuous days which face us."

Qualities Demanded Of Teen-Age Selectees

"Smartness of appearance, physical toughness, alertness of mind and cheerful performance of duty" are qualities which Major General P. W. Clarkson, commander of the 87th Inf. Division will demand from the teen-age soldiers who have recently joined the division, according to a lecture delivered by Chaplain A. H. Brieban of the Reception Battalion Area Chapel.

Each new group of young men were marched to the chapel upon their arrival and listened to an orientation lecture prepared by Division Chaplain John W. Early. The lecture answered many of the questions uppermost in the minds of young soldiers.

"You have come from many different walks of life," continued Chaplain Brieban to the attentive audience "You make up a cross-section of the whole American pattern of life. Now that you are here you will find yourselves fitting all these varieties of skill, talents and experience into a closely knit and skillfully fitted military organiation."

"Our country is spending millions of dollars to produce guns, planes and tanks which are the last word in power and efficiency. Their value in use depends upon the courage and trained skill of the men who use them. The man behind the gun is all important, and if you wish to be a true soldier you will want to master speedily the job of training before you."

Red Cross Chairman Gets Letter From Lt. Andrews

The following letter was received by Red Cross Chairman, W. E. Jackson, of Grenada from Lt. C. C. Andrews, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Honeycutt, of Grenada, who is with the 320 Bomb Sq. 90th Bomb Group, somewhere in the South Pacific Zone.

"I received a Christmas package from American Red Cross, containing candy, gum, mixed fruits, cigarettes, snacks, et cetera. Many thanks to you and other members of the Red Cross Chapter at home who have made this gift possible."

THE PERSONAL LETTER

Dear Mr. Jack:

The printed message above just about takes care of thanking you and the Grenada Red Cross for the nice Christmas box, but I should like to add that I am still enjoying the eats very much, and you may be well assured that I do sincerely appreciate the efforts of each of you who made it possible for me and so many more to enjoy Christmas. It is surely a genuine pleasant feeling to know that, while we are thinking so very much of those things that means home and our friends there, they are thinking of us and are doing so many, many things to help us along, so, once again, thank you and each of the organization.

Everything is pretty good with us out here, not very much to complain about except the distance home. Since this is Tuesday I imagine that you are about to enjoy one of those fine Rotary luncheons so how about taking on just a little extra for me. I could really use a lot of that good food right now.

The end of this page is fast coming up, so I shall run along. I surely would enjoy dropping by your place for a "bull" session Hope you are finding things just right and that the New Year will be for you a good one. If you will please remember me to Mrs. Jackson and Thelma.

"Choppy."

V-MAIL

PUB. CHAIRMAN'S NOTE: The Red Cross is appealing to each of you to give to the fund being raised now. Make it possible that our boys, no matter where they are, will receive in addition to many other services, a Christmas box from home. Lt. Andrews wrote his mother that the Red Cross package was the only package to get through to them for Christmas day.

Camp McCain Finance Officer Now Major

The promotion of Captain Norman P. Youngblood to rank of Major in the Army of the United States is a result of conscientious work and keen knowledge of military financial affairs.

Major Youngblood was born May 8, 1903 and has his home in Fayetteville, N. C., where he was successful in automobile financing prior to his entry into the service.

Major Youngblood joined the Staff of the Post Commander at Camp McCain October 10, 1942, and established the finance office from scratch that he now so ably directs.

Major Youngblood is married, and is the father of a promising young Lieutenant to be, who was born the 12th of November, 1942.

MEN OF THE 87 Infantry Division

Regimental Commander of the 345th Infantry is Colonel Kenneth S Anderson, born in Chateaugay, New York, and home in Albany, New York. Colonel Anderson attended Cornell University, which he left to enter the service in the spring of 1917.

On August 15th, 1917, at the age of 22, he was commissioned Captain of Infantry, and was assigned to command Company "E", 309th Infantry, 78th Division. He served in France with the Lightning Division, saw action in the British sector, at St. Mihiel, and in the Meuse Argonne, where he commanded the 2nd Battalion, 309th Infantry. He was recommended for the D. S. G. for his conduct in the attack on the Bois des Leges, France on November 1, 1918.

COLONEL KENNETH S ANDERSON
Commander 345th Infantry

At the close of the war, Colonel Anderson returned to this country, and during the next two years, served with the 63rd Infantry at Plattsburg Barracks. He was an Inspector—Instructor with the New York National Guard, and in 1926 went to the 19th Infantry in Hawaii, being stationed there for the next three years. In Hawaii he served as a company commander and assistant G-2 of the Hawaii Division. Returning to the United States he served as a Company Commander, and as the adjutant of the 2nd Infantry at Fort Wayne, Michigan.

From 1932 to 1938, Colonel Anderson served as Professor of Military Science and Traction of Western Military Academy, as a CCC Company and Sector Commander with the 11th Infantry at Fort Benjamin Harrison, as the Executive of the CCC of Indiana, and as an instructor of tactics at John Hopkins University at Baltimore.

In 1938 he was promoted to Major of Infantry. He was detailed to take the 1938-1939 Course of the Command and General Staff School at Fort Leavenworth, Kansas, after which he returned to New Pork as an instructor.

Colonel Anderson was promoted to Lieutenant-Colonel on August 18, 1942 and went to the 38th Infantry at Camp Bullis, Texas. He served as Commanding Officer of the 64th Infantry Training Battalion at Camp Wolter, Texas, until promoted to Colonel in December, 1941. In the summer of 1942, he was on duty with the Operations Branch, War Department, Washington, D. C.

During the month of October, Colonel Anderson attended the Special Division Class at the Infantry School, and on November 12, 1942, became the Commanding Officer of the 345th Infantry Cadre.

Commander Of 87th Division Addresses U. D. C.'s

Major General P. W. Clarkson, Commanding General of the 87th Infantry Division, addressed a meeting of the United Daughters of the Confederacy Yesterday in Grenada. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. G. S. Granberry.

General Clarkson spoke about the 87th Division, and stressed the necessity for continuing the splendid feeling of good will which now exists between the people of Grenada, and the men of the 87th.

"We are all part of the same team," said General Clarkson, "and all of us are motivated by the same purpose. Many of the soldiers who visit this town are young and only recently inducted into the army. They bring with them pleasant memories of home. They will find in Grenada a town which has opened its doors to them, and treats them in a manner befitting the traditional Southern hospitality."

Wonder if it is going to be the UWBPOA?

TWENTIETH CENTUR CLUB

Mrs. H. J. Ray was a most gracious hostess to members of the Twentieth Century Club on Tuesday afternoon this week. Mrs. Andrew Carothers was co-hostess for this meeting, however was unable to be present because of illness.

The home was decorated with arrangements of spring flowers and in contrast to the severe cold of the afternoon, the cozy warmth of the spacious living room with its lovely furnishings reflected in the glow of softly shaded lights, proved a most ideal place for the afternoon's program and social half hour.

Mrs. J. R. Perry, Sr., presi1ent, presided and called for reports from committees. Miss Estelle Turner gave a most interesting review of the book "Women for Defense" by Banning. Mrs. W. W. Whitaker read a paper based on current magazine articles and government releases telling of "Effective use of Women in National Life."

At the conclusion of the program Mrs. Ray, assisted by Mrs. Kirk and Mrs. Thomas, served a beautiful plate containing chicken salad in lettuce cups, olives, wafers and coffee.

Mrs. Thomas was the only non-member present. Twenty-one members were present.

ALL SAINTS AUXILIARY

On Monday afternoon twelve members of All Saints Episcopal Auxiliary met at the home of Miss Juliette Doak and Mrs. John S. King. Following the devotional a discussion of the Social Service Chairman's duties, and the announcement of the date, March 12, was made for the World Day of Prayer, a service of adult worship observed annually on the first Friday in Lent. This year the service will be held at the Presbyterian Church at 3 p. m. Everyone is urged to attend this service.

Mrs. Liles read an article on "Orphaned Missions," showing how the missions of the world have suffered during the war, and of the extra responsibility of the churches of America. Following the secretary's and treasurer's reports, and the short talk by Mrs. T. H. Weir, promotion chairman, the session ended.

The hostess served tea, cookies and salted nuts.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Calhoon visited their daughter, Mrs. Chas. Sisson and family in Clarksdale on Wednesday of last week.

Mr. J. A. Roane, of Iuka, arrived last week to attend the bedside of his mother, Mrs. "Drew" Roane, who is so critically ill at her home on Main Street. Mrs. Howze, of Texarkana, a sister of Mrs. Roane, arrived Thursday last, and will remain here in her sister's home for several weeks

Ensign and Mrs. Bill Fedrick, of New Bern, N. C. are here visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Neely during Ensign Fedrick's fifteen day leave. They will also visit his mother in Charleston.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Perry, Jr. and daughter, Mary Jane, visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. V. Catoe at Webb on Sunday last.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Cathey returned from New Orleans Sunday evening on the Panama.

Mr. and Mrs. William Hughes and daughter, Miss Eloise, of Chicago, were guests this week of their sister, Mrs. R. C. Trusty and Mr. Trusty.

Francis Hill, student at Ole Miss, spent the week-end at home with his parents, Dr. and Mrs. F. S. Hill.

Mrs. A. J. McCaslin, who has been with her children, Mr. and Mrs. Roger Dollarhide and children at Yazoo City, arrived home early this week for a visit here.

Mr. Charlie Brewer who has been stationed at Camp Lee, Va. has received his honorable discharge from the army and is back home.

Mr. Talbert Thomas, of Cruger, was in Grenada on Wednesday of this week as guest of his mother, Mrs. J. T. Thomas.

CELEBRATES SEVENTH BIRTHDAY

On February 25, Jacquelyn Sanderson, sweet little daughter of Mr and Mrs. Jack Sanderson, celebrated her seventh birthday in a big way by inviting thirty of her young friends to her party. As the young guests arrived, each bringing a small gift for Jacquelyn, they were given favors of candy suckers and were then given a colored balloon. The hostess had the balloons fastened to a small tree in the yard where the children enjoyed games, and this arrangement delighted the youngsters very much.

Games were enjoyed for an hour and then delightful refreshments of ice cream and individual birthday cakes were served. A large white cake with seven pink candles and placed in the center of the table, much to the delight of the children.

In the late afternoon the guests bid their charming hostess good bye and assured her that she had a beautiful birthday party and they enjoyed all of it.

MRS. MARDERS RETURNS

After an absence of several months spent in the home inherited from her mother's estate in Oakland, Mrs. Gertrude Marders has returned to Grenada to reside in her residence here on Union Street. Mrs. Marders expects to be joined here by her daughter- in-law, Mrs. Parrish Taylor in the near future as Parrish is "in the army now," having been inducted at Memphis on Tuesday of this week. Mr. Taylor has been employed as engineer for DuPont at Birmingham for some time, doing a most important work.

W. S. OF C. S.

The Woman's Society of Christian Service met Monday at the Methodist Church for the regular business meeting. Mrs. R. A. Cranton, president, presided. This week, March 1st to 5th is dedication week and Wednesday the church was open for an hour of prayer between four and five o'clock.

Next week, March 8th, the circle meetings will be held in members' homes.

Circle No. 1 Mrs. G. D. Thomason; Circle No. 2, Mrs. J. H Murray; Circle No. 3, Mrs. W. E. Jackson; Circle No. 4, Misses Cuff.

ANNOUNCEMENT

On Wednesday, March 10th a meeting of the Civic League will be held in the home of Miss Mary Knox at 3 o'clock. All members are urged to be present.

Mrs. Jeff Whitaker and little daughter are visting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harrison at Marks, this week.

Friends of Mrs. Robert Sharp grive with her in the troublous days she is experiencing now caused by the critical illness in her home of her sister Mrs. Jesse Ware and her brother, Mr Wardlaw.

We understand that the contagious febrile disease, characterized by swelling of the glans of the neck, known to you as the "Mumps" is with us now. We know positively of one case as our sweet little friend and next door neighbor, Joyce White, has 'em. We truly wish for Joyce a quick recovery.

Miss Carolyn Whitaker, freshman at All Saints Episcopal College, Vicksburg, will spend the week-end here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Whitaker.

Mrs. R. L. Nesbit, of New Albany, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Horn last week, and on Sunday last, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Carmack, of Memphis, also visited their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horn.

Andrew Whitaker, U. S. Air Corps, graduated last week at Smyrna Field, Tenn. wired his wife on Wednesday of this week that he is being stationed at Jackson Air Base, Jackson, Miss.

Mrs. Hal Rogers is expected to return home this week-end from Monroe, La., after a month's visit with her husband, Dr. Rogers, who is medical officer on a government project at that place.

Mrs. Shields, of Morton, has been the guest of her daughter, Mrs. C. S. Liles and family the past week.

THROUGH A WOMAN'S EYE

TEEN TOWN

How to entertain teen-age children and how to keep them out of the beer taverns were the problems that Columbia, Mo., faced. The young girls who frequented unsavory spots with sailors and soldiers too old for them presented a problem added by war time. These problems are being solved partially here by "Teen Town" a night club for youths to which no one over 18 can go.

This club, however folds up early and the bar serves only soft drinks, milk and candy bars. The juke box blares forth from 4 o'clock in the afternoon until 9 o'clock at night, boys and girls dance, play ping pong, bridge and checkers, or read—their parents know where they are are, and they approve.

Columbia, like other small towns, observed there was no place where the teener could go to and be entertained properly. The City Council in investigating the rowdy conduct in the 5 percent beer towns found the teeners were being entertained all right but in places where the atmosphere was on the sordid side. These places frequente by the college students are too advanced for the high school crowd.

So the City Council rented a church basement in an empty church. The City Council appropriated some money to make it presentable and comfortable. A total of $477 was spent in remodeling the basement. People in town contributed phonograph, records, ping pong equipment. Booths were built and a regulation bar was installed.

Teen Town was opened January 22 It now has 250 regular members who pay a 25 cent annual fee and dues of 10c a month. Juke box requires no coins, there is no charge for playing games.

Any afternoon from 4 to 6 the "kids" assemble for games. This group includes 9, 10, 11 year olds. From 6 'til 9, except on Saturday and Sundays when closing hour is midnight and 11 p. m. respectively—you can find young people there hep and in the groove before the juke box, lined up at the bar drinking pop or playing games.

The boys and girls govern themselves. The mayor and his six council members correct any infraction of rules. It is an orderly place. Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who recently visited Teen Town was especially impressed by the spirit of the group and their efficient self-government.

The boys and girls like it because it is their club.

Why couldn't Grenada have a Teen Town? The boys need it because they are always losing out to some soldier, the girls need it because they should see more of boys their own age. In a small town near an Army Camp, a high school boy is practically the forgotten man. How about that?

Milestone of Progress

Electricity's 60th Anniversary Goes Unobserved In Mad Whirl of War

First Commercial Use Began In 1882; Vital War Work Faces Industry Today

The privately-owned electric light and power industry is so immersed in its vital job of supplying energy for America's war industries that it has let pass without any formal notice the sixtieth anniversary of the first commercial use of electricity.

It was on September 4, 1882, that Thomas A. Edison put into operation the first station of Edison Electric Illuminating Company. Current began to surge through the underground conduits at 3 p.m., and electricity was here to stay. The 750-horsepower, or 550-kilowatt unit, supplied fifty-nine customers with light at a cost of about 25 cents a kilowatt hour and burned about 10 pounds of coal for each kilowatt hour produced.

Hydro-Electric Plant

Less than a month after the station went into operation, on September 30, the first hydro-electric plant began to serve a paper mill in Appleton, Wis., thus giving two epochal milestones.

Today the $13,000,000,000 privately owned industry and the government power projects have an installed capacity of 45,900,000 kilowatts to supply light, power and heat to their more than 32,000,000 industrial, commercial, farm and residential customers. Despite higher taxes and the manifold rise in labor costs, the price of electricity has dropped steadily over the intervening six decades until the average householder paid only 3.69 cents a kilowatt during the twelve months ended June 30 last.

The industry, which has been bedeviled for seven years by the public utility holding company act and has been faced with increasing regulation by states and the Federal government, points with what has been described as "quiet pride" to its wartime achievements.

No War Work Hampered

Not a single war factory has been forced to curtail production of arms or the raw materials for arms because of a shortage of electric power. Years of planning by the industry and the expenditure in 1940 and 1941 of $1,500,000,000 for additions to generating capacity and transmission and distribution facilities—as well as the growth of government power developments—has made power unique.

Surely The Charter Changes Will Be Abandoned

Surely the City Council at its meeting next Monday night will abandon the idea of changing the City Charter to permit the appointment of the Marshal and the Clerk, as well as other officers and employees of the City.

The gentlemen of the City Council will be faced with a petition containing from 450 to 500 names, perhaps more, asking that an election on the subject be called.

I will grant that, under the strict wording of the law, the Council could have embodied the change in the Charter at its meeting in February, when a petition, containing slightly less than the required 20 percent of the qualified electors, was presented. The matter was deferred until the March meeting and, at this meeting, a petition containing one-half or more of the qualified electors will be presented.

Strictly speaking, those signing for an election have lost their day in court; but, surely, the members of the Council (who should be responsible to the will of the people, and who should not be technical in the matter) will either call an election, or forget the matter. An election will NEVER carry, for nothing short of a dispensation from above could get a majority of the people to the polls to vote on the matter.

If, on the other hand, the Council DOES embody this change in the City Charter, we are going to find the tail wagging the dog at the election in 1944. The main qualifications for alderman will not be his ability, his honesty or his love of justice, but "who are you for for Marshal" and "who are you for for Clerk."

Kindly Referred To The OPA

One of my friends, an ex-booze hound, was bitterly complaining about the price advances in licker here in Grenada, and thought the attention of the OPA should be invited to the situation.

He stated that, whereas in March of last year Old Shenley was freely sold for 85 cents a half pint, it is now being sold at from $1.90 to $2.00 for the same quantity.

He stated that that grand licker, Old American, sold for six bits a half pint in March, 1942, and it now sells for $1.75.

He stated that in March, 1942, Old Taylor was sold for $2.50 a pint retail, and now sells for $4.50 a pint.

According to the same authority, licker which sells for $1.40 a pint in Memphis, sells for $3.80 a pint in Grenada.

It has got so that a po' man cannot afford to get drunk. Only the rich civilians and officers above the rank of colonel can afford to buy and drink licker. What does the OPA expect a man to do on Saturday nights and on holidays?

To make matters worse, the government has restricted the sale of sugar to moonshiners to the extent that, after they have bought and used up all sorghum molasses and Louisiana syrup in the country, they can make no more of the bust-skull or white lightning brand of alcoholic poison.

Dr. Tichnor's Anticeptic, Peruna, stove and shoe-polish are really more expensive than the $4.50 licker.

OPA, what is a po' man to do Is there no price ceiling on licker?

The L. S. U. And Slacks

We note that the Dean of Women at the Louisiana State University has ordered that girls with fat backs shall not wear slacks on the campus. Her order has aroused a storm of comment over the nation.

I heartily commend her upon her decision, but think that she did not go far enough.

I think girls with fat fannies should be barred from the wearing of slacks. I think those who protrude anywhere in too prosperous a manner should be denied the privilege of wearing slacks I think only those with proper and suitable contours should be allowed to wear slacks This would bar those who have lean backs and lean fannies.

In fact, I think the Dean should appoint a committee of men to pass on each case individually,

Her ruling should become a federal law, permitting none of these lean-legged, fat-fannied and bulging-bosomed ones to wear clothing designed for the curvy members of the sex.

Thanks For The Business

The old lady and I are deeply appreciative of the business being sent us by those who, knowing nothing else to do with people vainly seeking living quarters, sent customers to us. Of course we have no rooms, apartments or houses, and have had none for six months, but we appreciate the customers (?) just the same.

This business (?) has become so great that we (particularly the old lady) have little time to write social items, editorials and news items.

To tell the truth this business (?) has grown so much that we are going to ask our friends to divide the business with other firms. Personally I prefer that the good-looking and shapely (one or both) customers be sent to us, and the angular and ugly ones sent to some of our competitors for a while. I am at least entitled to the "break" of having eye-easers to deal with in the non-existent rental business.

In our rental business (?), in the future, therefore, we hope to deal with only those who do not cause eye strain.

By An Army Wife

If anyone doubts the kind reception of the army by Grenadians, it isn't the army. On the contrary, most of the soldiers and their families are constantly grateful to those who have opened their homes, welcomed them graciously to churches, entertained them at the USO, and generally out-done themselves with many acts of neighborliness and courtesy.

One of the kindest attributes of Grenadians is their friendly habit of speaking to us on the street. One particularly attractive matron says, "I like to recognize the soldiers with some sort of greeting—I believe it makes them feel more at home!" And it does. You'd be amazed how nice it is to be "included"—as though we were native Grenadians.

The service in most of the drug stores, filling stations, department stores, and the accomodations given us by post office, banks, and grocery stores, are positively excellent. We appreciate and thank Grenada for it.

For we realize that although the town is undoubtedly "coining money"—and loving it—because the army IS here, it is doing so for the most part as painlessly as possible, by being courteous, and giving us the greatest efficiency limited space and scarcity of labor can afford.

In return, we are striving to be of as little inconvenience as possible. Army families ask very little of you. Our policy is for the most part one of laissez faire. We ask privacy and peace in our "one rooms", and will retaliate with respect for you in your "invaded castles." To any half-way reasonable requirements, you'll find us ready to respond, no matter how foreign to our previous homes and environments.

We appreciate your effort and kindness, Grenada.

Eastland Urges Corton Increase

Senator Eastland, of Mississippi, said today he had urged Agriculture Secretary Wickard to increase the 1943 cotton acreage allotment and the price of cotton and cottonseed. He added that he and Senator O'Daniel, Democrat, Texas, would introduce legislation to bring about the higher prices.

O'Daniel also attended the conference with Wickard.

"There is a critical shortage of vegetable fats, oils and protein feeds," Eastland and O'Daniel said in a joint statement. "These essential fats, oils and protein feeds are products of cotton. Cotton is two-thirds food and only one-third fiber.

"The entire live stock and dairy industry is dependent upon products of cottonseed," they continued. "Cottonseed meal is the finest dairy feed in America. Cottonseed hulls are used in the manufacture of synthetic rubber. Cottonseed linters are a vital source of high grade cellulose, which is used in the manufacture of explosives. Cottonseed oil is a widely used food product. Authorities say that next to steel, cotton is the most important and essential war commodity.

"The cotton surplus is not too large. At the end of the war a ragged and hungry world will need more cotton than we have on hand .We hope Congress will do something to alleviate the acute manpower shortage, but even that is not sufficient."

"The prices for cotton and cottonseed should be materially higher. We intend to sponsor legislation to secure higher prices for the 1943 crop of cotton and cottonseed. With higher prices, more farm labor and increased acreage allotments Southern farmers will be in a position to make greater contributions toward supplying the country's needs for vegetable oil fats, food and fiber," they said.

Get On The Band Wagon

With Conner, Murphree, Bailey and Franklin already definitely announced, the race for governor seems to be definitely closed. According to all disinterested observers whom I have heard, or read after, Conner is the leading candidate.

I am not going to do any exaggerating in the matter when I say that I personally have heard quite a number of men, who have never supported Conner, say they are going to support him this time If things are going on all over the state, as they are here in this county where Conner has never been particularly strong although this county was one of thirteen which went for Conner in the run-off with Johnson four years ago, it is a dern good sign that "this is Conner's time"

Indicative of the trend, I am reminded of what one old gentleman—a beneficiary of the old age pension—said. He has been for Conner all the while because, he reminded me, Conner was the FIRST man who ever actually saw that the old people received ANYTHING, even though Conner had promised them NOTHING. He stated further that a number of his friends, in the old age class, had begun to see that Conner is the best bet for them.

For a long time I was the worst Jonah in Mississippi. My luck changed last year when both my men, Abernethy and Eastland, were easy winners. Get on the band wagon with me and Conner!!

District Judge Clips Wings Of OPA

The Federal Rent Control Act was held unconstitutional by Judge Thomas W. Slick in a decision handed down in South Bend, Indiana, last Friday.

The Judge said, among other things, "Congress never intended to delegate arbitrary rent control powers to a rent administrator and if it was so intended the act, under such construction, is unconstitutional". He continued, "In my opinion, the rent administrator cannot use his own discretion to arbitrarily fix rent prices WITHOUT A HEARING (my capitalization). There must be some standard to guide him which the Rent Control Act fails to provide."

If the Rent Control Act is unconstitutional in South Bend, Indiana, it is unconstitutional in Grenada, Mississippi.

If Mr. A and I agree upon a rental for a room, an apartment or a house, I do not think it is the Rent Control office's right to interfere—and Federal Judge Slick seems to concur in no mistakable language.

I think I (or any other person) has a right to enjoy the use of his own property, and that renters, not holding a legal lease, can be dispossessed whenever I desire the use of my own property, notwithstanding the Rent Control Act—and Judge Slick seems to concur.

So far as I know the rent administrator in the local area has used the "rule of reason" and has not abused the powers conferred upon him by the Rent Control Act—but I do not think that ANY such powers should have been delegated to ANY man, and Judge Slick seems to think that way too.

It is to be hoped that the final word, the U S. Supreme Court will soon rule on the question, and throw the Rent Control Act out to keep company with the NRA.

With Song On Their Lips, U. S. Seaman Swam Shark-Infested Sea, Led By Mississippian

The following story was told the Press-Scimitar by Lt. (j.g.) Claud Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claud Shaw, of Holcomb. It is extremely likely that Lt. Shaw will be promoted to full Lieutenant, USN, soon.

Swimming thru shark-infested sea in the Solomons, towing a raft load of wounded men 14 hours . . . singing the "Beer Barrel Polka" and other songs to keep up spirit.

That's what a group of sailors from the destroyer Walke did after their ship was sunk in the biggest naval battle in history, the Solomons Island Battle last Nov. 14.

The singing, swimming sailors were commanded in the water by Lt. (jg) Claude B. Shaw, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Shaw, Holcomb, Miss., who is visiting in Memphis.

Lt. Shaw is the lad who won a scholarship to Staunton Military Academy, Staunton, Va., in a Press-Scimitar sponsored contest in 1935. As Lt. Shaw unfolds his thrilling story, you feel proud of the contest judges who selected such a worthy young man for a scholarship that opened the doors of Annapolis to a farm boy who probably wouldn't have got there other wise.

JAP LOSS HEAVIER

The Walke was in seven engagements in the Pacific, including the Coral Sea battle, several raids that resulted in the shelling of Jap shore installations, and her grand finale in helping keep the Japs from retaking Guadalcanal. The ship was lost with six other destroyers and three cruisers, the Jap loss was heavier. Lt. Shaw says "we knocked off about 50,000 Japs that night." He said 12 Jap transports, each with 4000 men, and other Jap vessels were sunk by the American armanda.

Here's Lt. Shaw's story:

"Destroyers are considered expendables. They lead attacks at night, are used for screening. They go down quick. They are rough-riding, yet the men want to go back on them All my crew came to me when we were ashore for medical treatment in the Solomons and requested duty on a new destroyer.

"The Solomons Battle, Nov. 14, was a battle of ships; the largest naval battle ever fought. The Walke was leading this particular task force. As soon as we got in contact with the Japs, who were coming down to retake Guadalcanal—we were sent down to stop them at any cost—we fired on several different ships. (Lt. Shaw was a gunnery officer.)

"I observed several Jap ships blowing up, including one on which we were firing. In a slugging match like that, you can't be sure who sinks what.

"It was a beautiful display of fireworks. Yes, we even had time to think of the beauty of the scene. You have some strange thoughts while in battle. It was around midnight, and very dark, so you could see the tracers coming at you, wondering of they were going over you. You could see your own tracers, and hoped they'd get him (the enemy) before he got you.

'SHELLS FILLED SKY'

"The sky was filled with shells. We were getting them from two different directions. I talked to a Marine on the island the next afternoon. He had observed the battle from a hill said he thought all hell had broken loose and the whole world was on fire.

"Even tho it was deadly, you couldn't help seeing beauty in the whole thing. Everybody was calm. Talk was in quiet, business-like voices. There was no excitement or hysteria. The boys who got hit were very brave. There was no moaning—you wouldn't have thought there was a great deal wrong with them.

"A Jap cruiser shelled us. Five or six shells hit, scattered the length of the ship. A torpedo—I don't know where it came from— broke us into two pieces. It exploded the magazine.

"We went down in two or three minutes. The captain said: 'She's the best damn ship in the Navy. Let's get the hell off here.' He was Comdr Thomas E. Fraser, of Philadelphia He was lost.

"About 60 percent of our crew was saved. Most of us just had life preservers. We had two rafts, and we gathered the wounded and put them on the rafts, as many as we could pack on. I had been hit in the head with a piece of shrapnel aboard ship, but didn't realize it until the salt water hit it. It had gone thru my helmet.

"I also was caught by an explosion in the water, while swimming. It was an underwater explosion. The consuscion killed quite a few. I believe it was depth charges.

'MEN WTRE SPLE DID'

"The water was coated with oil, and some of it burned, but not close enough to do us any damage. We kept away from the burning oil.

"The reaction of the men in the water was splendid. Some were badly injured, but they were quiet, or made joking remarks, such as: 'I wonder how much leave I'm going to get' and one said: 'Gee, I wish I had an ice cream soda.'

"I was the senior man, so I organized the group. All the men of the Walke were close together, in two groups. We took a tow line to pull a raft load of injured. We tied the line to a man in the lead, and I had the others hold the line with one hand, swim with the other.

"We had to do this because we were going against the tide. I headed for Henderson Field, since I knew about where it was. We had to swim and pull the raft to keep it from going out to sea.

"We were in one of the most shark-infested spots in the world The natives use it for ceremonial purposes. They take sacrifices out there and throw them in the water to the sharks. An old English doctor later told me he wouldn't believe we had been out there. He said he'd give a man five minutes at the most, to live. The shelling must have scared the sharks, or the oil didn't smell so good to them. We saw only a couple of small sharks the next day.

"We were in the water from about 12:40 a. m. until 2:)4 that afternoon. We didn't gain over three-foruths of a mile in our swim against the tide.

"To give the men something to occupy their minds we kept chanting going—something like 'The Volga Boatman,' and then 'Roll Out the Barrel.' We got awfully tired, even with life preservers, but the sea wasn't so rough.

"While we were swimming, a Jap ship came along and turned its searchlight on us. One of the men said, 'here we are in the water, and they're looking down our throats, and I don't even have a water gun.' The Japs must not have seen us, tho, as they didn't do anything. They would have, if they'd seen us.

STRAFED BY ZEROS

"After a Navy vessel picked us up, we were strafed by Jap Zeros. Two men who had survived all that swimming got it.

"They took us to an island in the Solomons, and we were placed in hospital tents. We were stripped before we landed, so they could find our wounds. Dry land felt awfully good.

"The next day, after a delicious meal, some of the men who had been in the water 14 hours wanted to go swimming! Others wanted to organize a raiding party, and go to the front for souvenirs. We had no guns to fight with, but we went for souvenirs."

Lt. Shaw pulled out a souvenir It was a coin he got from a dead Jap—he had several, but has given them away. The coin he had was about three-fourths the size of a dime, and tho bright, to be made of pewter or such metal. On one side was a silkworm and on the other was a Fujiyama, the Jap volcano, with a rising sun above it. The writing was in Japanese characters.

He was in the Solomons a week, then in New Caledonia until Dec. 14, after coming down with malaria and dysentery. He arrived in San Francisco Jan. 4, has a 20-day leave. Lt. Shaw was living in Wilson, Ark., when he won the scholarship in a contest with more than 300. He won the basis of his high school record at Wilson and a letter as to why he wanted to go to Staunton, after an interview by the judges with four other finalists. His scholarship to Staunton was for two years, but the academy gave him a third year. He finished second in his class at Staunton, was rewarded by an appointment to Annapolis—the goal he had in mind before he entered the contest.

SAW PLENTY OF ACTION

He was graduated from the Naval Academy Dec. 19, 1941, just 12 days after Pearl Harbor. His class finished in 2½ years instead of four because of the imminence of war. He went aboard the Walke immediately, having made destroyer duty his first choice at graduation. After a short time in the North Atlantic, he went to the Pacific.

Lt. Shaw saw plenty of action in the Pacific. His destroyer got possible credit for one sub, which he believes they sank with a depth carge after they saw the periscope. They got several Jap planes, most of them Mitsubi torpedo planes.

"The Japs are tough fighters," he said. "They are well trained and have good equipment. We have had a slight edge over them, but it's been hard work. I look for a long war in the Pacific."

He is visiting his aunt, Mrs. Ozella B. Sevier, 1139 Madison. Her son, his first cousin, is Lt. George B. Sevier, of the Army, who was in Panama until recently and is "itching for active duty," Lt. Sevier married the daughter of the American consul to San Salvador recently.

Lt. Shaw wants to get aboard a new destroyer. That's the ship for him. He is scheduled to report to an East Coast port Feb. 10 to board a destroyer.

Calm and not the least bit nervous after his harrowing experiences, Lt. Shaw said, "I want more action. I hope we return to the South Pacific." —Press-Schimitar, Jan. 26, 1943.

70 SHIPS SUNK IN BAY

There's a bay where naval battles have been so often in the Solomons that Navymen call it "Iron Bottom Bay," Lt. Shaw said. He said about 70 ships have gone to the bottom in this bay.

The ghost walked at the camp Monday. Everyone has plenty of money now, but it has been so darn cold that nobody was willing to brave the icy winds.

Camp McCain News

The newly arriving soldiers will find the USO and the Military Maids very active here in Grenada. There are dances most every night at some Service Club at Camp, and on Saturday nights in town at the USO center. The girls are doing a fine job attending so many, since there are relatively few girls. Of course they enjoy it greatly, too—that is understood.

That dance at the Air Base last Tuesday that we promesd to tell you about was a great success. It was the first one given by the Base, and was very well attended. The boys were in the mood to dance, and there were a great variety of steps. One lad from Idaho was intent on teaching us how to Sottis—that's a combination of a boogie-jitter and a polka, with a little hop-scotch thrown in besides.

Col. Walker attended and was as charming as usual. Several other officers were also present, and one Shavetail (Can't you just tell by the sound of the word that he's a Second Lieutenant?) led the Air Corps song to great applause. All the USO girls seemed to enjoy the party greatly.

The club was decorated with red, white and blue ribbons and festoons and the out of town band seemed to play without intermissions to great effect. Thede were even sandwiches and punch and cakes!

After recuperating from that party, we attended another one two nights later at the same club—the "Coke" party given by the U. S. Engineers for the people that had worked for them and with them on this job. It turned out to be a farewell party to Capt. Jimmie Emmons. Capt. Mitchell was the very hospitable and efficient host-in-charge, and managed a fine party. Marie Trusty was shoeless again before the evening was over, and Carrie sat back and chaperoned the party. Ines Moore and Virginia McCool did a beautiful interpretation of the Hawaiian fandango. Mr. Hendrix was voted one of the best dancers of the evening, and his Lady Friend, maybe I'd better hasten to add that it is Mrs. H., did a mean polka. Can't tell about the activities of C. T. Main employees, but can say in a general way that they were very much present. Our champion Jimmie E. was impartial, and danced all the gals to "My Dear."

By the way, Jimmie left this Saturday. There was a final farewell coke at the Hotel Barwin before the train left for Omaha, Nebraska, and then Jimmie was gone. Annie Hughes' alias Mrs Emmons will follow shortly in ca' with their small son, Jimmie, Jr.

Just ran into the Sergeant that has "something to do" about putting eating places off and on (he doesn't seem to know the meaning of this part of it) limits. Poor old Dyre-Kent is now off limits, you know. We've been eating there since June, and are healthier than before, if anything, and some of the native townspeople are still with us who drop in there most every day. But that is only one example. All this off-limit seems to be a little overdone, at a casual glance. Reminds me of the boy in Puerto Rico. All the Americans were warned about the dangers of malaria, and of eating and drinking in the native places. The American troops and officers were ordered to be careful, and to take these little Quinine tablets for malaria prevention. Soon most of the officers had relaxed their vigilance, and all had stopped dosing themselves, except one careful first Lt. Well, he was the only Lt. out of the small group thatt I knew personally that came down down with malaria—but bad.

Talking about sickness, some of the Post has measles—must have been brought in by the 17 year old recruits —A lot of the wives are objecting, too.

The G. I. haircuts are really gaining popularity here at Camp. Yesterday Sgt. Quinlin, who boasts 6'3" of height, and regrets 230 pounds of weight, blossomed forth in one. His wife is still on speaking terms, however.

To skip back to the contractors, Leona Greene and little Rusty are back again for a few days, visiting Slim They expect to go to Baton Rouge very soon.

We regret to announce that Mr. and Mrs. Dick Groome are in Jackson attending the funeral of his aunt.

We were away when it happened, and just found out that Brad Wells, Mr. Wells' son, has been called to the Navy Air Corps. He left school this last fall to wait for his call, and was delighted to finally receive it. He is now in Basic Pre-Flight training at Ft. Smith, Arkansas, and says that although the boys work from 5:30 in the morning until 10:00 at night, they love it.

My boss was complaining about the number of "foreign" girls that were answering the phones lately around camp, and so the next time the phone rang, I hurried to answer it and found that the gal was from New York.

Letter To The Editor

Washington, D. C., Feb. 24,,, 1943

Mr. W. W. Whitaker,
Grenada, Mississippi

Dear Whyte:

I read your editorial last week relative to the housing situation in Grenada. Last week I recived a communication from your Chamber of Commerce relative to this situation. They also forwarded to me a "report of housing conditions" in Grenada.

Immediately upon receipt of this information I contacted Col. A. C. Knight, Chief, Civilian War Housing, War Department, and the office of Mr. John B. Brandford, Jr., Administrator, National Housing Agency. From the information secured, I am quite sure that Grenada can secure a housing project. When the necessary and proper application is filed, which, of course, will have to come from the proper authority in Grenada, you may rest assured that I will follow the same up here in Washington and do everything in my power to expedite the program.

We pointed out to the authorities here that thousands of troops were being moved into Camp McCain and that several thousand civilian workers would be constantly on duty; that all available rooms, apartments and residences were filled to capacity and that even the nearby towns were unable to take care of the overflow The reaction and response was, in my opinion, very good.

For these reasons I have no doubt but that the suitable program will be approved when and if a formal application is made by the City of Grenada.

With best wishes, I am
Your friend sincerely,
Thos. G. Abernethy, M. C.

A Pointed Talk

A gentleman came in and told me to POINT out to him what he could do with his POINTS. I told him there were some people endowed with lots of good POINTS and a few bad POINTS and some people had lots of bad POINTS and a few good POINTS and some of us think our bad POINTS are good when they are really bad POINTS, so it behooves us to be leninent and slow to judge a man's bad POINTS until we know our POINTS are good and then maybe we will be in position to POINT out to the other man how to make good POINTS out of his bad POINTS and then we'll all have good POINTS.

So Considerate

Yes, we have the most considerate lot of customers in the world and folks we do appreciate your kindly attitude and patience with us while we pull your POINTS and sack your goods with POINTS. We are all in this thing together but if we pull together and keep our patience, our morale, our chin up and our faith we will be in a position to POINT peoples in far off lands to a better way of living.

Unselfish Motive

The point system was devised to give every man rich or poor his fair share of food and still have enough supply our boys and allies in order to carry on victory. Let's continue to support these things wholeheartedly and be happy while doing it.

Seen, Heard and Told

By The Editor

—V—

Bob Carpenter, tycon of Elliott, made a business trip to Grenada Monday.

That grand day of days, "d aw day" was Saturday, and everybody was happy again.

Better follow me this year, boys, and vote for a winner, Mike Conner. My jinx was broke last year, when Ford and Dixey were relegatted to private life.

Aint they sweet.

More and more soldiers are getting their military stationery at the GCW, for we have all kinds of military cuts to use on the paper. Glance in our window as you pass.

Preacher Robinson, they say, preached a good sermon Sunday.

For the first time in many months our overseer, Mr. Terrell, remained in Grenada this Monday.

Wing says the children in China go to school six days a week, eleven months a year—a darn good system.

Miss Alma Smith, of Memphis, just sent in a couple of bucks.

That lady is now allowed to cut cloth with steel, instead of rubber scissors, since the quarantine has been lifted.

Our honorable board of supervisors has been "in setting" this week.

Hon. Vernon Gibson, of Holcomb, was in town looking and listening Monday

The OPA or the WLB must have allowed the Bulldog editors to buy a new typewriter ribbon as Horn can read the copy fairly well.

Elliett Lawrence has got to be quite an editorial writer.

See us for personalized military stationery for that son or that husband in the service. A birthday gift, for example.

Cousin Junius Townes, Jr., just wheeled by.

George Organ, of Holcomb, brought in the dollar for your renewal all right, Sister Taylor.

This idea of all of the state candidates going in a body once to each county—and let the folks get a full belly of it in ONE day—is a darn good idea.

There is a lotta rookies here now.

Talking about the weaker sex, did you ever see a man walking around with legs bare to his knees with the mercury down to 10?

The termites will have to get diamond pointed bills to destroy the runways and aprons at the Grenada Army Air Base.

From the number of rookies seen, it is easy to believe that the 87th is a bout filled up.

We had our annual case of boils this week when J. P. and Glenn Boyte came in and renewed. They have worked wonders with the Townes old place North of Hardy.

Providence has been kind to Grenada up to and including 11:30 a. m. Wednesday, March 3, 1943, for there have not been TWO fires at the same time.

This is to remind the folks at Camp McCain that we can do as good printing as anyone.

Had the pleasure of meeting Major Brantley, the Camp Judge Advocate, recently. He is an old newspaper man.

I believe Pratt McMullin's brother is visiting him, the gentleman looks like Pratt.

Aint they sweet.

Several white young men went to Camp Shelby Tuesday. We will list them when they return to Camp.

Captain F. W. White, the Post Intelligence Officer at Camp McCain, is all smiles these days as his attractive wife of Jacksonville, Florida, is visiting him a short while.

Pvt. R. C. Christopher, of Keesler Field, has been added to the mailing list. Hope you get to be a Cpl. soon, Pvt.

When you mention "Sunny South" to some of the Northern boys, they laugh out loud.

Oh, me.

SERGEANT PRESTON P. VANCE DESCRIBES TRIP TO JERUSALEM

Dearest "Sit":—

I returned from a trip to the Holy Land last night and will try to tell you some of the things I saw.

The first place I visited was Tel Aviv, Palestine. It is a new city about 30 years old with a population of around 150,000 and it is located on the bank of the Mediterranean. The city is made up of the upper class people from every country in Europe, and mostly Jews, that have decided to leave their country for not getting equal rights with the other people. When the average person comes to Tel-Aviv, they come broke but in their past life have been well along in the financial world. They have a Settlement they can go and tile the soil for food and the necessary things to live on. Everyone shares the same in the Settlement, of course as soon as they get a job they usually leave the settlement and work for money.

We registered at the Service Club as soon as we arrived in the City. That afternoon we were invited out by the ladies for Tea and the afternoon dance at the Club. We enjoyed this very much to be so far away from home and to be treated so nice by these fine people. This city is very modern, the buildings mostly constructed out of Stucco with all the floors made of tile. There is very little wood in this part of the world. The design is different from the homes and hotels in the U. S. A. Nearly every room, no matter how many stories high it is, has a little porch-like affair. Oranges, lemons, lime and Citrus are in groves all along the roads. The country side is very beautiful. The first night we went out to several night Spots to see the night life of Tel-Aviv. The places are similar to the places in the States. In the afternoon from 12 noon until about 12 midnight the Cafe or Cabaret (Daylight Only-Blackout after sun down) are all open and most of them have a band playing and mostly American tunes, sometimes they won't have but very few customers but they play on just the same. There are hundreds of these places.

We got up on the second day at 5 a. m. and started for Jerusalem which is about 40 miles up in the mountains. For miles we traveled these winding roads with nothing to be seen but mountains covered with large rocks and fur trees which make the country very, very beautiful. Nearing the city there are houses after houses built all over the country side, made of cut rock blocks. All the fences are made of these rock. Some of the homes are very pretty with Olive trees and grape groves lined so perfectly all around the homes. They move the rocks down and made a terrace like wall of rock and cultivate between these walls in this mountain country.

Our party of 8 of the boys and Lt. Hamilton all from our Group arrived at Jerusalem about 8:30 a. m. We had breakfast at the Y. M. C. A. and after finishing our breakfast engaged a guide recommended by the Y—for our tour through the city. We started walking down the street and entered the Old city at the famous Jaffa Gate. The Old City, large wall around it with a circumference of about 2½ miles with six old gates and one new gate that was cut by the crusaders in the 16th century. They are: The Jaffa Gate, Damascus Gate, Mount Zion Gate, Harris Gate, St. Stephen's Gate and the Golden Gates. This wall was built for protection from the outside world and has been maintained through all these years. The Old City cannot be entered by trucks or cars because the streets all over it are about 6 feet wide with all the Hebrews and what have you—as merchants display their goods whatever it might be out in the doors so the by-passers may see it and buy something. These people inside the walls are all of the lower class. The small narrow streets are filled all over the city with people mostly natives of the city. I couldn't understand who they sold to. To each other I guess. The old city of Jerusalem is built on four mountains and they all have a name but I do not know enough about he Bible o remember them all. Our guide was very much of an educated man and knew the history of the city well. Now these streets do not look like the streets in our towns. Sometimes the whole overhead is covered as it was a building itself. As I said before this city is built on rocky mountains and we were continuously going up and down these hilly streets. They are some times nothing but stair steps.

After walking a long ways through these streets we came to the Mosque of Omar (Church) inside was this huge rock called the Don of the Rock, on this Rock King David made the sacrifice of his son. In later years this beautiful mosque was built over the rock. The rock is about 150 feet across the top. Around the sides on the floor are these pure Persian Rugs costing over $4,000.00 each and they are all over the floor. They were donated by people all over the world. Inside is all inlaid with mother pearl and flue blocks of pretty wood. It is impossible for me to describe all the things that were told us of the history of this place.

Then we went out side and had a group picture of our party. From there we walked outside of the walls of the Mosque to the Famous Wailing wall, where the Jews go and pray and read the Bible. There were, I think five people there while we were passing. Then we passed on through the narrow streets until we came to the place where Christ ttook the Cross to take it to Calvary. We walked along the Viva-Doloroso (The way of suffering). This is supposed to be the same street Christ bore the Cross. Se saw the fourteen stations that Christ passed. The station where Christ met his mother, The Virgin Mary, the station where He fell the second time and Simon helped him carry the Cross. At all these fourteen stations there were a Chapel, but they are open only on Friday with the exception of one. Inside this Chapel was a wax staute of Jesus Christ and this lady wiping the sweat from his face with the Cross on his shoulder.

We walked on until we came to the Holy Sepulchre, inside were people paying homage to the Holy place. Then we passed on to the place where the cross was found many years later where it had been hidden by the thieves. Then we went on to the Tomb of Christ, also saw where the cross stood and where the two thieves stood at the time of his death. In this church is a real life like statue of Virgin Mary inside a glass cabinet. On her hands, neck and shoulders were millions of dollars worth of gold lockets, diamonds, watches, pearls and all kind of valuable jewelry. This was presented to her memory by rich people and churches all over Europe and the rest of the world. Everything inside all these old churches are very fine and expensive. All these places have been reworked, even the huge wall of the Old City, but as far as legend can tell these places are supposed to be the exact places of Christ movements.

From here we went to Bethlehem which is about 5 miles from Jerusalem. On the way we went through the Valley of the Refrain where King David defeated Philestrien, also passed by the Convent of St. Elias. Further on is the Tomb of Rachel. Rachel was the wife of Jacob and died giving birth to a child. She was traveling the road from Jerusalem to Bethlehem. There the people have a cemetery where all people that die traveling the road are buried. Just before entering Bethlehem you see Shepherds Field, where the shepherds look after the flocks. It was there that the Angels told the shepherds about Christ being born and they left their flocks and went to see the new born. Bethlehem is the birthplace of Jesus Christ also of King David. We went into the Church of Nativity which was built about 1000 years ago over the Stables where Christ was born. The Stables at the time of Christ was simply Caves in the rock mountain side. Today it has been re-worked and divided into more rooms than was in the original cave. The Holy Family came to Bethlehem to spend the night and they did not have room for them in the inn of the city so they were staying at the stables the night Christ was born. The Star of Bethlehem is supposed to be the exact Spot where Christ was born. There is a large silver star marking the spot, about 15 feet away is where the Manger is: the old wooden manger has been replaced by a stone one. The original walls are still in this church as they were 1000 years ago. There is also a room down under the main floor level called the Chapel of the Innocent where the masacre of children take place.

In the Church of St. Catherine is where St. Jerome lived and translated the Bible from Hebrew to Latin. It was raining when we came out of that church and was turning colder. We walked over to a shop and bought a few things of the Holy City.

There was an inlaid table made of mahogany and Mother pearl that was the prettiest and most complete thing I have ever seen and it was all hand made. It cost $80.00 and is worth twice that in the U. S. A., if it could be had. If I had any idea I would ever be able to get it home that is one thing I would buy, I may do it anyway.

Then we left and came back to Tel-Aviv for the night and went out to a service club dance and enjoyed it very much. The last afternoon we were at Tel-Aviv we were invited out to a home for tea. There were four British and two American soldiers and about the same amount of Young married ladies, most of them Jews. They made us feel very much at home. We two Americans walked back to town with two of the ladies and everyone hopes some day to come to America. They all say it is a wonderful place.

We caught a bus out to a British Air Port and were able to get a plane to Cairo, Egypt which was 400 miles away and made that trip in 1½ hours. Then we caught a U. S. Transport to our destination.

If I ever get any more leave I want to spend it in Palestine or Syria.

I shall never forget this trip to the Holy Land, and no one could ever describe a trip like that as it is seen through the eye.

We really took lots of pictures and I will be proud of them when I get home I know.

It is getting late and I will write some more next time.

I realize there are people in the U. S. A. that spend thousands of dollars to make the trip we had the pleasure of making.

One more thing, I passed by a new U. S. A. Base in Palestine and I was told they pall $800.00 per acre and it is covered with orange groves and they are going to cut them all down. The base has more than 2,000 acres in it. The man thought he was not getting enough for his property.

Write as often as possible.

As ever,

Preston P. Vance.

P. S. Note my change in address. No movement has brought about this change. Just a little more Army.

THE HOME FRONT

BUREAU OF WAR INFORMATION

Quotas of wood allocated for making necessary civilian clothes have been doubled. This move is a further assurance from the War Production Board that there will be adequate wool clothing for civilians next winter.

Though collection of iron and steel scrap is vital, WPB says copper will be the Number One scrap problem this year.

FISHERMAN'S LUCK

The armed services have been catching so many fishermen that those remaining can't catch enough fish. Last year catches of this important food declined more than a billion pounds, and aid is being sought from the War Manpower Commission.

Price control will be extended to many fresh vegetables within a couple of months This will leave fresh fish as the only important food which isn't under price ceilings.

ARMY FOOD BUDGET

General Marshall's grocery bill for our 5,000,00 heavy-eating enlisted men runs $2,800,000 a day. This is only 56 cents per soldier, and the food's mighty good . . . A pound of meat, one egg, a pint of milk 1½ pounds of vegetables besides potatoes; bread, butter, sugar—and ceffee 40 times in 30 days.

Wholesale price ceiling on eggs have been set at slightly above 40 cents per dozen for the South. Ceiling on soybeans have been establisted a little higher thaan current market prices.

CLOUDS OVER DIXIE

The Forest Service is concerned over great losses by that old habit of burning land in the South. It's an easy way to clear debris at this time of year, but it is frightfully destructive Grass and brush fires spread so easily that every year millions of trees are ruined. Right now Uncle Sam needs timber badly.

The size of machines will be cut to save lumber this year. About a quarter of an inch will be snipped from the end of the familiar kitchen match.

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, with Ease for Stomach, too

When constipation brings on discomfort after meals, stomach upset, bloating, dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative-Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with Syrup Pepsin for perfect ease to your stomach in taking. For years, many Doctors have given pepsin preparations in their prescriptions to make medicine more agreeable to a touchy stomach. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully the Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines to bring welcome relief from constipation. And the good old Syrup Pepsin makes this laxative so comfortable and easy on your stomach. Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. Take Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna combined with Syrup Pepsin, as directed on label or as your doctor advises, and feel world's better. Get genuine Dr. Caldwell's.

The World Food Problem

By Herbert Hoover

(WNU Feature—Through special arrangement with Collier's Weekly)

There are more Horsemen that follow modern war than at the time the Apocalypse was written. In modern total war, Famine and Pestilence are accompanied by four new recruits—whose names are Revolution, Unemployment, Suspicion and Hate. These additional destroyers make the job harder to manage.

That there is and will be famine in this world of today, needs little demonstration. Already 148,000,000 people in the occupied democracies in Europe and Asia are short of food; millions of them are actually starving, and our Allies are obviously running on very short rations.

The Nazis' food supply is sufficient for their evils of today. They are working hordes of prisoners on the farms and robbing some of the occupied territories. But their internal production will grow worse as the war goes on and there is less to steal from the subjected peoples.

In fact, the whole of Europe will continue to degenerate in domestic food supply. The reasons for that are simple enough: Europe in peacetime—and by Europe I mean Britain and all of Europe excluding Russia—has to import large amounts of food for human beings. That is now cut off by the blockade, except to Britain, and some small amounts to the neutral countries.

Decline in Field Crops.

On top of this, under the pressure of total war, field crops decline year by year. Manpower and horsepower are increasingly drained to the war; farm implements cannot be replaced; fertilizers are diverted to explosives; planting is less effective, and harvesting less perfect. Also, the animals in Europe are in considerable degree dependent upon imported feed. In consequence of the blockade, some part of the dairy and breeding herds must be slaughtered early in total war, and domestic feed for the remaining animals decreases because more fields must be turned to direct food for humans—and still more of the flocks and herds must be slaughtered.

In the last war, the principal food animals of Europe—cattle, hogs and sheep—decreased by over 70,000,000 heads, and that is again taking place. The available chicken, rabbits, and fishing is greatly diminished. Thus the stream of animal products steadily decreases. To all this must be added the ravages of armies and scorched-earth policies.

Nor will famine this time be limited to Europe, for these causes are also working in Asia and Russia.

It is difficult for Americans to picture widespread hunger or starvation. We have not had such a thing in America.

What Starvation Means.

Nation-wide hunger and starvation mean grim suffering, incalculable grief over wilting children, physical degeneration, stunted growth, distorted, embittered minds and death. Its lasting effect is one of degree and time. Adults can recuperate from months of undernourishment. Children can stand less. In fact, the undersized, rickets, and the death rate among children are the sensitive barometers of starvation. Not even during our Civil war was there a town or city where these effects reached one-tenth of what they are in certain cities of the occupied democracies at this moment.

From all food shortages comes the danger of pestilence. People do not often die directly from starvation. Their resistance is weakened and they fall easy prey to contagions. Moreover, people consume their available fat supplies and have little or none left for soap. Uncleanliness invites such scourges as typhus—which is transmitted by body lice.

There is another vital peril in this question. Unless these masses of people in scores of nations can have food and be protected from pestilence, there can be no social or political or spiritual stability upon which peace can be built.

We had a parallel experience with this problem after the First World war. In that famine, America bore the major load of supplies, finance and administration. Except for American food preparedness there would then have been the greatest sacrifice of human life in all history.

That America succeeded in its task is evidenced by grateful statements of every government in Europe.

No nation had ever undertaken such a mission before. We had to pioneer through the thickets and swamps of governmental, social, financial and economic problems, including human nature in the raw. From that experience, we can make some estimate as to the need next time, the sources of supplies, and the strategy and tactics necessary to defeat both famine and pestilence and to set millions upon the road back to strength and health

Eggs by the Pound Instead of by Dozen

Trend Favors Both Buyer and Seller

A trend toward selling eggs by the pound instead of by the dozen is becoming evident in some sections of the country, and this is profitable both to the producer and the consumer, in the opinion of Myrtle Murray, home industries specialist of the Texas A. and M. college extension service.

Under present marketing practices, the consumer pays as much per dozen for extremely small eggs as for standard eggs which weigh two ounces each, or a pound and a half per dozen. Likewise, Miss Murray explains, the producer who markets standard size eggs or larger receives no price advantages for a better product.

Until the public and the trade accept the change from the dozen to pound basis, producers will have to obtain their premiums by offering high quality clean, infertile eggs correctly prepared for marketing.

An Indiana farmer hitches up his team of mules. There's plenty of use for a team these days.

This means that eggs should be gathered at least twice a day and kept in a clean wire basket until they are cool and ready for packing. They should then be graded as to size, putting the uniformly small eggs, the medium (24 ounces to the dozen) and large ones in separate containers. They should also be candled, and sort out the defective eggs.

Eggs should always be packed with the pointed end down. If packing materials have been used previously, care should be taken to see that they are clean. Avoid wrapping eggs in newspapers.

Miss Murray recommends that eggs be marketed at least twice a week so that consumers can be assured of fresh produce.

Agriculture in Industry

By FLORENCE C. WEED

Rabbits

California is the leader in rabbit production although no complete figures for the nation are available. It is known that in the Los Angeles trade area, 1,600,000 pounds of rabbit meat have been sold in one year. The U. S. Rabbit Experiment station is located at Fontana, Calif., where studies are being made in breeding, fur and wool production and marketing. Rabbit raising has thrived in the West because the mild climate permits open air hutches.

Most of the income is made by selling rabbits for meat. This compares favorably with other meats in protein. It has less fat and costs less per pound than expensive cuts of beef and lamb.

This country has imported an average of nearly 91,000,000 pounds of dressed rabbit pelts and it would seem that there might be a bright outlook for selling furs and pelts. Efficiency studies show, however, that meat is the more dependable outlet. Because of the cost of stock, it requires more money to raise rabbits than poultry.

California raises more Angora rabbits than any other state. Much rabbit wool is imported and some California people have obtained a better price per pound for wool when it was spun into yarn at home and then sold to department stores.

Minerals for Hogs

Feed proper minerals to hogs at all times. Market hogs make cheaper gains, brood sows raise more thrifty pigs, and healthier hogs are produced when minerals are used. By using a protein supplement, such as a mixture of equal parts of cottonseed, peanut, or soybean oil meal with tankage, or shrimp meal, farmers can grow out their pigs and fatten their hogs with about half as much corn or sweet potatoes as when these feeds are used alone.

BIBLE TEACHINGS AGAINST DRUNKENNESS

LESSON TEXT—I Samuel 30:16, 17; Isaiah 28: 1-4, 7; Galatians 5:19-21.

GOLDEN TEXT—"Strong drink shall be bitter to them that drink it."—Isaiah 24:9.

Sowing and reaping is one of those universal laws which applies in all realms of life. What we sow we reap, whether in the farmer's field, in our national life, or in the life of the individual. It is true physically, mentally, morally and spiritually.

How surprising then that intelligent Americans think we can go on with the use of intoxicants which have destroyed other nations and expect to escape the same sad consequences. Professional men have wrecked their careers, business men lost their hard earned positions, and rich men dissipated their inheritances; and at the same time each of them has fallen into moral decay—all through their inability to control their desire for drink. Yet we continue to license its sale, and so another generation of young men must meet the same temptation.

Our lesson presents three results of drunkenness.

I. Military Defeat (I Sam. 30:18, 17).

A crisis in the life of King David is reflted in this chapter. The Amalekites had taken Ziklag. The king and his family were prisoners, held by a host of barbarous men far too strong for them to oppose. He inquired of God and was told to attack. With his little army of 400 men he defeated them. Why? Because in a drunken debauch they were celebrating their victory of the day before.

This was not the first, nor the last, time that military defeat followed indulgence in alcoholic beverages. It has happened even in the present war. Have we learned the lesson? Will we avoid that danger?

In this country our armed forces and defense workers are constantly exposed to temptation—and how many of them fall, anyone may know who has eyes to see.

From distant battlefronts come disquieting reports that intoxicants are among the "supplies" which find quick transportation to the very front, where they are soon put to their destructive use.

II. National Decay (Isa. 28:1-4, 7).

Isaiah was a mighty voice against moral corruption, and for the righteousness of God. With true prophetic insight he saw beneath the outward prosperity and apparent glory of his people, and exposed the sins which would soon destroy them as a nation. Outstanding among these destructive forces was drunkenness.

Turning first to the northern kingdom of Israel (for the nation had now been divided), he tells them that though their valleys may be fertile and their cities resplendent, the collapse of all their boasted greatness will surely come if they live in revelry and drunkenness.

He speaks of the coming of "the mighty and the strong one" (v. 2) who will be like a destroying storm. He refers to Assyria—itself an ungodly people, but used of God to scourge His own people who had become indulgent and sinful.

There is a truth here which we need to learn. When nations forget God and fail in their responsibilities to Him and to their fellow men; when they become vain and self indulgent, God will bring judgment upon them. He may use as His instrument nations who are themselves pagan, to accomplish His purpose.

The people should be led in repentance and righteousness by their religious leaders. How sad that some set an example in the other direction. Others who live personal lives above reproach are silent on these important questions lest they give offense to someone who may make it difficult for them. How sad!

III. Eternal Destruction (Gal. 5:19-21).

Military loss and national decension should be enough to align every right thinking person against intoxicants. But far worse is the fact that they bring many, many men and women into eternal separation from God.

In this passage "drunkenness and revellings" find their proper place with the other works of the flesh which close the door to the kingdom of God. There is no use trying to dismiss or cover it up as the unfortunate weakness of an otherwise nice person, or the natural result of a bit of social fellowship.

America has too long regarded a drunken person as a joke—or at most a bit of a nuisance to be indulged and tolerated. The Bible says that "they who practice such things shall not inherit the kingdom of God" (v. 21).

That is plain enough, isn't it? Mr. Drinker, outside or inside the church, had you better not think about that before you drink again? Church of Christ, is it not time for you to do something more effective to deliver the young men and women of America from the constant temptation now placed before them?

Secret of Painting on Real Spider Webs Lost

Among the most beautiful and unusual displays of artistry are spider-web paintings—paintings on real spider webs. Originated by a famed Innsbruck family of Tyrol (now Italy), the secret of this type of painting was lost when last members of this family died. Unlike the flimsy cobweb of the ordinary house spider, these spider-web backgrounds are thick and durable like tough canvas. Usually small, 2 by 3 inches, these paintings have endured for 400 years.

There Are Dragons

There are real dragons today, but naturally they are not quite all that fairy stories say about such beasts. In the Dutch East Indies still lives the Komodo dragon, a fearsome-looking lizard ten feet long. It does not breathe fire, but it is quite a nasty customer when roused.

All kinds of extinct lizards and reptiles, some of which may not have been extinct for so very long, no doubt helped to build up the legends of the dragons against which the heroes of every land have fought.

This Portable Stand Handy for Mending

HERE the lid of a reclaimed phonograph cabinet is turned upside down and screwed to a wooden box to make a portable container for your mending. Half the time required for mending is usually taken up in getting everything together at a convenient time.

If you can't find a pair of old metal drawer handles there are many designs at the dime stores

SCREW OLD PHONOGRAPH CABINET TOP TO A BOX
FILL OLD HARDWARE HOLES WITH PLASTIC WOOD THEN ADD DRAWER HANDLE
TURN UPSIDE DOWN AND TACK SKIRT THROUGH STRIPS OF CARDBOARD

made of composition and wood. The lid may be painted or stained as desired and the box will be masked by the full skirt tacked to the under part of the lid edge. If you wish to line the upper part, cut pieces of cardboard to fit the sides and bottom. Cover these with chintz; add a strip of belting ribbon to the side sections, catching it down to make holders for equipment; then glue the sections in place.

Washington MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON

Washington, D. C.

THE AGRICULTURE DEPARTMENT

In the last few days the President himself has silenced administration critics of Claude Wickard, and decreed that he remain as secretary of agriculture.

The President's stand came at the height of an increasing storm brewing round the amiable Indiana corn farmer, whom everyone likes but whose all-important food program is lagging.

White House advisers have told the President that Wickard's program was inadequate, that it must be drastically revised, that there would be shocking deficiencies of food. Some have urged that Wickard be replaced.

The President, however, has defended his secretary of agriculture. But also he has appointed White House Secretary Lauchlin Currie—whose regular field is Chinese relations—to act as umpire on the farm program. Currie has given Wickard a nine-point program for revamping American agriculture and among other things has pointed out that England increased her food production 80 per cent with little additional manpower. Why, he asks, cannot the United States do the same?

AGRICULTURE'S PROGRAM

Here are Currie's proposals, advanced with the blessing of the White House:

1. The goals of agricultural production should be higher.
2. A new production program, possibly with a new budget, should be presented to congress.
3. All acreage allotments and other restrictions on production should be removed to encourage the more efficient farmers.
4. The 1,000,000 farm operators of second rate efficiency should be brought into full production with the aid of seed, fertilizer, livestock, machinery and even land.
5. Cotton and tobacco acreage should be reduced, corn acreage, allotments removed entirely, and more wheat should be fed to livestock.
6. Profiting by British example, a new "land army" should be organized, to use town and city dwellers, especially women, for farm work.
7. Truck farmers who produce such luxuries as iceberg lettuce should be converted to more essential crops.
8. Facilities for processing and drying foods should be increased.
9. Local direction of the farm program should be shifted away from Farm-bureau-minded agents, toward agents more responsive to federal direction.

WICKARD'S FARM PROGRAM

Wickard's response to this sweeping proposal was to accept part of it, reject part.

He believes the production goals are already high enough that it's too late to present a new program for 1943, that cotton goals have already been substantially lowered, and tobacco reduction would require change of the law.

He agrees to removal of acreage restrictions on most crops, but not on cotton and wheat, which still yield embarrassing surpluses.

Claude is a little touchy on the question of county agents and committeemen, insisting that federal representation is adequate.

FULL PRODUCTION

On other points, however, he agrees with the White House proposals, declaring some already are in effect. He wants to bring the 1,000,000 less efficient farmers into full production, to increase dehydration of foods, convert truck farmers from iceberg lettuce, etc., and organize a new land army from towns and cities. In fact, he already has a plan well advanced for the "land army."

Wickard, who had hardly been heard of before his elevation to Wallace's place in the cabinet, has had clear sailing for two years, thanks in part to good weather.

Now, however, he is facing just as tough a job in trying to produce more, as Wallace faced ten years ago in trying to produce less. No secretary of agriculture ever faced more opposite and more difficult problems. The average person realizes the problems confronting the secretary of agriculture. They are exceedingly complex.

Wickard knows his position is shaky. But he is on his mettle, fighting to meet the established production goals.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Tunisia Upset Slows Yank Timetable; Japs Open 7-Pronged Offensive to Knock China Completely Out of War; Axis Spokesmen Try Peace 'Feelers'

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysis and not necessarily of this newspaper.)

Released by Western Newspaper Union.

A wounded U. S. soldier struck during a heavy air attack by German planes on the airfield at Souk el Arba in Algeria is shown being comforted by a comrade-in-arms. The airfield was originally captured by U. S. paratroopers.

TUNISIAN TIMETABLE:
Delayed by Rommel

General Eisenhower had had his choice of fighting decisive engagements on ground offered him by Marshal Rommel or on terrain of his own choosing. That he had preferred the latter was indicated by the fact that he was not drawn into a major battle when the Nazis pushed American troops out of the Tunisian area between Sidi Bou Zid and Gafsa into the foothills bordering Tebessa, Algeria.

While the Tunisian reverse was not a catastrophe, it was nevertheless a punishing setback that meant considerable further delay in liquidating the Axis in Africa and moving on to the vastly bigger job of getting at Europe. The situation was brightened somewhat by reports that the veteran British Eighth army had rolled up from the south and had engaged Rommel's attention.

The loss of three advance airfields and three forward positions by the American forces was costly. Superior weight and mechanical equipment, plus gruelling battle experience was the explanation for the Nazi success. The new German 60-ton Mark tanks had proved too strong for the 28-ton American tanks. The Nazis, moreover, had caught the Americans with their lines too thinly held.

In Washington Secretary of War Stimson said that American forces, outnumbered and outarmed have suffered "sharp reverses and substantial casualties."

BLACK MARKETS:
Gangsters Reap Riches

How to combat the black markets in meat products which were skyrocketing retail prices, menacing the supply for military and lend-lease purposes and endangering the future existence of small packers was a problem that had congress as well as agricultural officials worried.

As reports persisted that gangsters had turned their unscrupulous talents into this highly profitable illegal trade, two suggestions were made by the OPA to the house small business committee, for solving the problem. One was for the government to purchase live animals. The other was for a registration of every person who sells or handles meat.

FRENCH ARMADA:
To Strengthen Allies

Heartening news that 42 French warships, in addition to the four now undergoing repairs in American shipyards, would soon be fighting on the side of the United Nations was brought out by Vice Admiral Raymond Fenard, chief of the French naval mission to the United States.

Admiral Fenard said that two more battleships, six cruisers, an aircraft carrier, seven destroyers, 14 submarines and ten auxiliary craft would join the United Nations armada "soon, but I don't know when."

The naval leader said that the cruisers Gloire and Georges Leygues already are in action against the Axis.

PEACE OFFENSIVE:
Axis Tries Wedge

Long expected by Allied chancelleries, the Axis peace offensive finally got under way. First feelers were extended by Virginio Gayda, Fascist editor. The next move came from Nazi Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels.

The theme of both Axis spokesmen was that the unprecedented Russian victories were as much a danger to Britain and America as to the Axis. Therefore why not a separate peace, so that Europe could be saved from the Bolshevik menace?

Quick to expose the spurious technique by which the enemy hopes to talk its way out of the consequences of impending defeat, was Elmer Davis, chief of the Office of War Information. "This pulls the whole matter into the open," he declared. "The Axis is trying to drive a wedge between Britain, the United States and their Allies."

CANNED MEAT:
Temporary Freeze

Making supplies of canned meats and canned fish last through the year was a problem causing many a headache in the Office of Food Administration. Stocks on dealers' shelves had dwindled ominously; housewives were on a buying spree. Result: the OPA suspended sales of canned salmon, tuna, shrimp, meat spreads and kindred products until at least March 28—the date on which meat rationing was expected to begin.

Meanwhile, housewives and corner grocerymen had begun to familiarize themselves with the point-rationing system governing the sale of canned fruits and vegetables, dried fruits, canned soups and canned baby foods.

JAP WAR THEATER:
Mme. Chiang Urges Speed

Even as Madame Chiang Kai-shek in Washington was calling for more decisive Allied blows against Japan, communiques from China revealed that the Japs had undertaken what was apparently a major effort to knock China out of the war.

The Jap offensive took the form of attacks in seven Chinese areas from above Shanghai to Yunan in the Southwest. The core of the drive had been directed along the old Burma road in Southwest Yunan.

Seeking to stir America to a greater understanding of Japan's menace to the Allies, Madame Chiang said it was contrary to the United Nations' interests to allow Japan "to continue not only as a potential enemy, but as a waiting sword of Damocles, ready to descend at a moment's notice."

Reports from Allied Pacific headquarters continued to reflect steady, if undramatic progress. In New Guinea, American and Australian jungle troops were pushing hard on the heels of Japs retreating from the Wau area toward Mubo on the outskirts of Salamau. In the air Liberator and Flying Fortress bombers continued attacks on Jap positions in Dutch New Guinea and New Britain.

HIGHLIGHTS . . . in the week's news

WASHINGTON: Col. Bernt Balchen, New York, famous for his Arctic exploits and now a member of the army air corps, has been awarded the Soldier's medal and Oak Leaf cluster, the war department announced. Balchen participated with two navy fliers in the rescue last June of a Flying Fortress crew in Greenland that had suffered a wilderness crackup.

CANBERRA: The Australian commonwealth issued a proclamation according the United States most favored nation treatment on tariffs. This action was taken without formal request from the United States. R. V. Keane, minister of trade and customs, said: "It is wrong that our principal ally, who has given us great material assistance, should remain on the punitive general tariff."

Trotsky Was Not Prince

Leon Trotsky was not a Russian prince who changed his name, as has been reported time and again. He was a Russian Jew who came from the middle-class. He had a university education, and he changed his real name—Bronstein—to Trotsky because it was as L. D. Trotsky that he fled to England with a forged passport at the beginning of this century.

LET'S WIN THE FIELD AND LITERARY MEET!

There are various activities of our high school about which the general public knows little or nothing. Among these is the annual event which the students call "field meet." This includes athletics literary, and platform contests. This year, field meet is to be held March 20, rather later than has heretofore been the custom. There are some who think that this contest should be discontinued this year, because of difficulties of transpoctation. If ever there was a need for such events as field meet, it is now. Such competitive activities tend to develop in the students a sense of fairness, acuteness, and initiative that essential to our American way of life. It gives to us an idea of the rewards that may be reaped when we play the game fairly and squarely. Those students who are selected to represent the school in the various activities are justly proud of the honor and always determined to do their best for themselves and their school. The contest developes loyalty at a time when loyalty is decidedly needed; a sense of unity in working together toward the same goal.

Field meet is yet almost a month off; during that time let those students, who have been selected to go, turn their minds toward preparation; let the rest of the student body back them up 100 percent! Let's keep the good record GHS has always made.

Let's keep the cup!

GARDEN CLUB PRESENTS PROGRAM

(Intended for last week)

On Thursday afternoon the Grenada Garden Club, of which Mrs. Glenn Thomason is president, gave a very timely program at the high school auditorium. Mrs. Velma Neely, Home Demonstration agent for Grenada County, presented the plan and idea for the Victory Garden project. Mrs. Gillis gave an instructive talk on the necessity of a properly balanced diet. She displayed charts that show clearly the results of eating proper foods.

Mrs. Thomason announced that prizes are being offered for the most successful Victory garden.

Grenada High pupils were fortunate in having this program presented and thank the Garden Club for bringing this information, which is important for all of us.

JUNIOR PLAY

The cast has been completed, and rehearsals are now in progress for the Junior Play of 1943. This year the presentation is Pete Williams' new three ace comedy "Oh, Promise Me!"

Featured in this cast are: Warren Robinson, Larry Noble, Roy Honeycutt, Buddy Avent, Maragaret Green, Olga Lewis, Catherine Herring, Laverne Wilson, Pauline Elliott, Ruth Lee Morrow, Ruth Talbert, Bargara Roberts, all of whom are members of the Junior Class.

All the cast describe the play as one of the funniest and most entertaining plays, and theiy feel confident that the people of Grenada have a rare treat in store when they attend the performance. Miss Simmons, who is charge of the play, believes "Oh, Promise Me!" is sure to prove one of the most successful plays ever presented in this community.

The Juniors will present the play March 19 in the Grenada High School auditorium at 8 o'clock.

CHAPEL

At the regular Wednesday chapel period Mr. Rundle read some verses from the ninth chapter of Luke and based his comments on the verse "He steadfastly set his face to go to eJrusalem." In his talk Mr. Rundle emphasized the importance of having a definite purpose in life and of working to attain that purpose.

Miss Gayle Doggett, assistant to the pastor of the Methodist Curreh, made a very interesting talk in which she cited instances of persons who held to high purposes.

Mrs. S. A. Morrison, one of the prominent Grenadians and an outstanding member of the U. D. C., organization, then spoke for a few minutes. "Miss Fannie" complimented the singing of "Dixie," "Carry Me Back To Ole Virginia," and other Southern melodies and urged thtat more study be given to Southern heroes.

G.H.S. welcomed Miss Doggett and "Miss Fannie" and will be glad to have them repeat their visits.

PRESENTING—

The boy of the Week

Who didn't take long to find him a gal?

Whom have the boys taken in as a pal?

Intellectual, modest, and teacher's pet

One of the best students we've ever had yet,

I like him, you like him, we all think he's swell!

You've guessed our star; He's Joe McKell.

PRESENTING—

The girl of the Week:

Shee's a cute little freshman; we all agree

She's just what a freshman ought to be.

She attracts attention, yet knows her place

To hold their man, she leads the gals a chase.

That she's a good G. H. S. girl, is plain to be seen

Who is this maiden? Why, sure, she's Joreen.

WHAT WOULD THIS WORLD BE LIKE IF—

Olga Lewis got to school at 8:30?

Miss Turner's English students didn't wear a perplexed frown?

Johnny and Berta "broke up?"

Albert Graves were as tall as Jay Gore?

Joe Turnage weren't talking?

Josephine and Rose weren't arguing?

Coach didn't have an imagination?

Mary Liz weren't taking letters from Miss Turner?

Tommy Horton weren't being naive?

The Chemistry Class weren't cramming?

The Glee Club weren't practicing?

The Honor Society ever sold any war stamps?

Gloria Moser weren't singing?

Rookie ever failed a subject?

Ralph Blaylock ever missed a question?

Griffin Thomas ever answered a question?

Estelle weren't writing to Bud?

Marguerite ever knew the place in Shorthand?

Terry Mack weren't sleepy?

Mary Nell didn't have a secret?

Miss Turner ever lost patience?

The G. H. S. girls didn't have their soldiers?

Rogers Pleasants weren't zigzing?

Billy Buck had a date?

We didn't have the high school parties?

Beebe weren't talking about Dale?

Margaret Cannon acted undignified?

Miss Hammond weren't advertising Lost and Found articles?

Miss Simmons were as short as Miss Wilson?

Coach didn't give catch questions?

We didn't have G. H. S.?

HOME FRONT

85,380. Of these 12,500 are Philippine Scouts, 52,880 Americans. By far the greatest number are missing—44,181; 10,150 are reported dead, 10,950 wounded.

Three times as many Americans died in auto crashes annually over here before Pearl Harbor.

SUPPLIES FOR RUSSIA

Since the beginning of the Soviet aid program, we have shipped nearly three million tons of war supplies to Russia. The Soviet army is urgently in need of food just now. We haven't been able to send them much to eat so far.

Trucks delivering goods for the military forces are allowed to go faster than 35 miles an hour, but they are supposed to display pennants showing that they are engaged in emergency service.

It is mandatory for owners of heavy duty machinery to register with the War Production Board. Many Southern loggers have neglected to do so and even commissioners in some southern counties have failed to register highway equipment.

Sentinels of Health
Don't Neglect Them!
Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.
When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feel tired, nervous, all worn out.
Frequent, scanty or burning passages are sometimes further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.
The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Beware Coughs from common colds That Hang On Creomulsion relieves promptly because it goes right to the seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ laden phlegm, and aid nature to soothe and heal raw, tender inflamed bronchial mucous membranes. Tell your druggist to sell you a bottle of Creomulsion with the understanding you must like the way it quickly allays the cough or you are to have your money back.
